

Bio: Brett Mitchell

Intrepid Group Regional Director APAC

Originally from Zimbabwe, Brett has always felt a connection to Africa. This has seen him travel across the continent entirely on public transport from London to Cape Town, which took him around nine months.

Brett is a chartered accountant and has a professional background in finance; including senior roles in the accounting, telecommunications and manufacturing industries. Working in London for more than five years, Brett successfully led a range of debt raising and mergers and acquisitions activity, along with an initial public offering on the London Stock Exchange.

Brett joined Intrepid Travel in June 2008 as the Group's Financial Controller, before being appointed as the Group Finance Director, and progressing to the Executive Group in September 2012. In 2017, he was made the Regional Director of the APAC region for The Intrepid Group.

Serving on the Audit and Risk Committee, Joint Venture Boards, and as a Board Director of The Intrepid Foundation for more than four years, Brett is committed to delivering on the business' strategy around creating shared value and making a positive difference to all stakeholders.
