

Intrepid Group

Bio: Michelle Beveridge

Intrepid Group Chief Operating Officer

An experienced C-level executive and board director of 15+ years, Michelle has developed her capabilities in many industries including pharmaceuticals, logistics, financial services, higher education and travel.

Initially pursuing a career in accounting, and later in information technology (IT), Michelle has leveraged these combined skills to facilitate significant business change and growth programs. In her current role, she has oversight of The Intrepid Group's global finances, along with its IT and shared services.

Michelle is a strong advocate for gender diversity in IT. As a past president of the Victorian ICT for Women Network she was involved in the start-up of 'Go Girl, Go for IT,' a project that has continued to grow and reach more high school students with informative and fun activities about careers in IT. In 2016, her achievements in innovation, leadership and digital transformation in the travel industry were recognised through the Women in Travel (Technology) Award, along with her place in the top 25 of the CIO50 Awards.

Michelle is a non-Executive Director for VERNet; a telecommunications company, and REI Superannuation Fund. She is a fellow of the Australian Computer Society, a certified professional accountant, a graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors, and has an MBA (Exec) from the Australian Graduate School of Management.
